GREENWOOD CITY

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres. —

July was so dry and August followed in its footsteps until the mid month storm. When it struck there was no wind and the air was dead and dull. Then the sky seemed to sweep closer as the valley grew black under the piling clouds. They boiled against the mountain tops and broke apart making the sky seem as if it were in touching distance. Then I noticed a blurr far in the hills drawing nearer, advancing like a vapor curtain, moving ever so quickly. A curious low note was in the trees; the wind pushing great slate colored clouds. Suddenly the sound was sharp and shrill and the wind on the other side of the valley coming straight on bent the trees. It growled and spit like a wild cat when cornered. The vapor curtain was a shiver of white, then rain.

Thunder at first, low and sullen, sounded like a maddened beast chained and trying to break away.

The lightning so close and vivid; that purple blue light across the heavens that made me shudder.

The big trees across the lawn could hardly be seen for there was now a solid wall of roaring rain, beating against everything.

The porch floor became flooded so hard did the wind drive with moaning gusts.

The lights flickered, on and off; then on again.

The storm raged with increasing fury for a short time then subsided and the thunder rolled away.

Through its moments of wildness we received a much needed rain. Looking out there could be seen little rivulets hurrying down the drive way and the grasses and flowers nodding their thank you's for so refreshing a shower.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

September 3, 1968
To the Editor of the Bethel Citizen:

In 1965, Mr. D. B. Wight, a native of Gilead, compiled a fascinating account of the development of the area between Bethel, Maine and Berlin, New Hampshire in a book titled, "The Androscooggin River Valley." The book can be borrowed from the Bethel Library and I recommend it enthusiastically to those who are interested in a chronological description of the growth of the area.

Mr. Wight's interest in and affection for area which is native
to him are evident on every page of his book. The preservation of the scenic beauty of the Androscooggin River Valley is obviously near and dear to him. He is an ardent advocate of proper zoning and planning. Thus on page 485 of his book he writes:

"In order to preserve desirability in the town (Gorham, New Hampshire), a Planning Board, building laws and zoning are the first things that should be considered. Therefore, young men who have now taken over have many plans to formulate."

The last page (495-6) of the narrative part of the book contains the following:

"Although Bethel is a modern town with a bright future, it has maintained the elegance and charm of the past with the help of a Planning Board and Zen-
ing." (Emphasis mine.)

"The many large homes, some that were built before the Civil

In making the decision on those ministration will need an exact count of kindergarten students.

Parents will be notified of the decision by a note brought home
by their child this first day of school.

Miss Vivian Brown was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard at Millinocket this past week end.

War show no change or deterioration from their original beauty and style. Some of the store buildings remain the same as they were many years ago.

Since it was established in 1836 Gould Academy has made Bethel an educational center of note. It has been enlarged many times . . . It seems but a short time since the first settlers left here (Bethel) and entered the wilderness to clear farms, build new homes and settle new towns on the Androscooggin River in the shadow of the White Mountains.
Bethel, with its fine atmosphere
and reminders of the past, seems to be an appropriate place to end
this narrative."

I feel confident that this tribute to Bethel would have been omitted had the book been written in 1968 after the repeal of the Bethel zoning laws. Orderly planning and zoning are essential to the continued well-being of this town and its inhabitants.
Only chaos can come from failure to plan. There is no future for Bethel in belching smokestacks, indiscriminately placed trailer colonies, gas stations that dot the highways every few hundred feet, pizza and hot dog emporiums and other activities of that ilk. The economy of Maine and its constituent parts will suffer irreparably
if its God-given beauty is destroyed. In 1968 Mr. Wight must be saddened and dismayed by the abolition of all zoning and planning in Bethel. A host of others who love Bethel are equally saddened and dismayed.

Sincerely yours,
Mark E. Cymrot

Cards were presented to John Mills, committee chairman, who in turn presented one each to Oscar Johnson and Norman Mills, members of the committee present and Richard Melville, Scoutmaster, and Harry Swan, Jr., Assistant Scoutmaster. Committeemen Carlton Lapham and Merle Lurvey were unable to be present and will receive their cards later. Warren Smith gave a talk on the Ranger Program and stressed the importance of trying to gain new members for the present Scout Troop. Scott Blanchard received his First Class pin and Ralph Mills received his Second Class patch. The First Aid merit badges were earned by Dana Melville and Herbert Ring this year. It was announced that Dana Melville had earned the Order of the Arrow, Madockawanda Lodge at Camp Boma-zen, East Belgrade. After the presentation a regular Scout meeting was held. Included were Scouts Scott Blanchard, Dana Melville, Herbert Ring, Robert Packard, and Ralph Mills; Scoutmaster Richard Melville, Assistant Scoutmaster Harry Swan Jr., Legion Representative Warren Smith, Committeemen John Mills, Oscar Johnson, and Norman Mills, and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Packard, Anna-Marie and Susan; Mrs. James Blanchard; Mark Mills; Miss Nancy Melville and Miss Marcia Mills.

we care

how many ribs in a pork loin rib portion?

We think there should be seven.

Not four, five or six.

With A&P's seven-rib portion, you get more of the meat.

How can you tell how many ribs you're getting?

It's easy.

With your fingers, you can feel all seven.

The rib bones in the package.

Next time you're buying a Pork Loin Rib Portion, check it.

If you can't count one, two, three, four, five,

six, seven ribs, you're missing select meat.

You're not getting the best value for your meat dollar.

Seven-Rib Pork Loin Portions are just one example of the full value A&P meats offer.

We think that caring like this about fair portions has helped make A&P America's largest meat retailer.

When you think about it, shouldn't A&P be your store?

NIGHT MAKE ADVISORY BOARD PERMANENT PART OF LEDGEVIEW HOME PROGRAM

The advisory members of Ledgeview Memorial Home, Inc., West Paris, like the directors serve without salary or other remuneration. A number of them are to be commended for the active part they are taking in the campaign to raise funds for the initial amount needed to start building this modern health facility for the area. Their counsel is also sought and valued as details are being worked out and finalized before construction is begun. It is felt that there is a definite place for the advisory board on a permanent basis to provide a springboard for cooperative endeavor as Ledgeview Memorial Home strives to serve the surrounding communities. Why not contact an advisory member from your town to find out how you can help Ledgeview Memorial accomplish its task, and how it can help you or a loved one?

Expanding concepts of geriatric care point up the desirability of greater community participation in any meaningful program for the care of the elderly. No longer should the nursing home be considered a place to dump the old folks and forget them. An active interest of the public in the patient, and in the program of the home for the patient, can do much in helping him to reach his potential of well being.

The modern nursing home has come to be an integral part of the community, along with the hospital. As has often happened, when an area is short on nursing home beds—extended care or other—patients ready to leave the hospital are forced to hold up hospital beds that are sorely needed for other patients. Sometimes in order to free these beds, patients are sent to nursing homes a considerable distance away. Ledgeview Memorial aims to help keep these patients nearer home, where they can have the benefit of more contacts with the familiar and dear.

In spite of the nation-wide growth of non-profit homes as distinguished from proprietary, one of the most frequently met questions in this campaign is: Why a non-profit nursing home? On this question, Administrator Adelbert Bowen has this to say:

"Those who have followed the rise and progress of the Federal program for medical aid to the aged, known as Medicare, and its younger companion, Medicaid, will remember that as soon as it was sure that the program would be a reality, many medical services across the country began raising their prices. To some this looked like a rush for bigger plates on which to get a more generous serving of Uncle Sam's gravy. And then as the program was put into operation in hospitals and later in qualifying nursing homes the competition that ensued over available R. N.'s and L. P. N.'s in order to meet Medicare staffing standards, left little room for thought of what this sky-rocketing cost of nursing care was doing to the non-Medicare patient caught in the cross-fire.

Laudible as are the aims and accomplishments of Medicare, somewhere along the line someone needs to give some consideration to those on public assistance and to those who from choice or necessity are do-it-yourselfers. Aren't they just as worthy of needed care as those on Medicare? I know that this is a matter of concern to some proprietary homes who are trying to find a way of doing something about it. But for us faced with the problem of starting a new facility in a low income area, the non-profit home presented itself as the best answer to the need.

As the result of initial assistance on building costs from civic-minded friends in the areas served, the elimination of investors dividends and directors salaries, and other similar savings we hope to bring the advantages of a modern nursing home facility within the reach of many more who need them, non-Medicare as well as Medicare. In this endeavor we see our role, not as competitors, but as cooperators with our sister institutions, be they nonprofit or proprietary, in a common cause of service to humanity.

To those who have so freely assisted thus far and those who will be assisting in making this a reality, our sincere appreciation."

SOUTH WOODSTOCK — NEWRY

— Mrs. Olive Smith, Corra. —

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis M. Davis and Gladys Knights, North Wadsworth, went to Shelburne Museum, Shelburne, Vt., this week Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Many have never heard of this place. It is about seven miles below Burlington to the south and well worth anyone's time to view the inside of some 40 places on the grounds. The old-fashioned country store, drug store, the left handed dentistry tools and doctor's equipment, were in one building, even to foot-pedaled drill were quite intriguing. The old buckboard wagons, buggies, coaches of all types, the horse-drawn bob-sleds, old sleighs of all kinds were placed in the big barn with horse statues fastened in the shafts of some of them.

Another shed had old tools the farmers used too numerous to tell about, bees alive and working, known as the bee house. Then dolls and doll houses, old music boxes, toys of all types were displayed behind glass in another building.

Many homes were shown equipped as the people lived in the early days. The Webb Memorial Home would be of great interest to artists as it was filled with many paintings from Europe. The light-house, also, displayed paintings of various ships which were beautiful.

For the hunters the Beach Hunting Lodge contained many trophies of mounted animals, where one could spend a long time reading about the displays in this building.

The children could enjoy the miniature circus parade which would be two miles long if it were life size.

The sidewheeler, Ticonderoga, a steamer that was used on Lake Champlain until the early 1950's, was hauled over land two miles to this museum. This was a feat which seemed next to impossible but it was done at a heavy cost.

A government train (special train for a governor) was also shown. As we went through the luxurious train one marveled at the comfortable quarters installed for one man and his nine associates. It seemed like a modern trailer to us. This was a very fascinating trip. We hope others will avail themselves the opportunity of visiting Shelburne Museum.

Lorraine Davis has finished work for the summer and returned home.

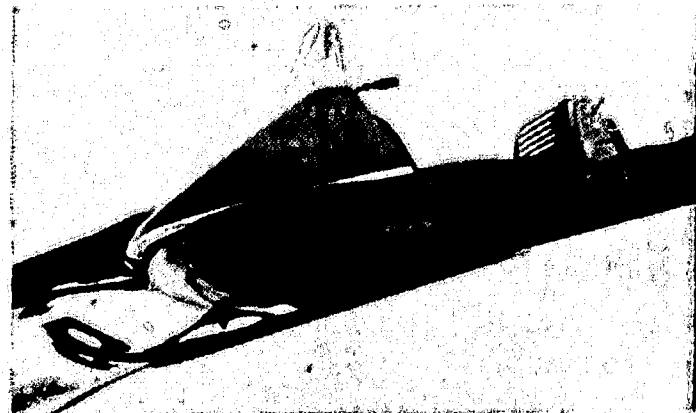

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Davis, Mrs. Geraldine Bentzel and daughter Terri and Ronald Nelson called on Mr. and Mrs. Guyson Davis, Sunday afternoon.

Terri Campbell had a white mouse given her for her birthday Saturday. That night about 11 o'clock he got out of his cage.
